Solution of the Chinese Problem-Diplomacy Chief Feature.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.]

Washington, Aug. 29.—A special meeting of the Cabinet, lasting all day and broken only by a short recess for luncheon, marked the intense interest which the administration feels in the Chinese problem. It was the longest Cabinet session of the present administration. The diplomatic, and not the military phase of the situation in China, was under consideration, and this accounted for the presence of Acting Secretary Adee, an unusual happening at a Cabinet meet-ASHINGTON GARDENS—Los Angeles County Improvement unusual happening at a Cabinet meeting.

Mr. Adee is the medium through which the foreign governments communicate, and he has been in receipt of a good many statements recently. Last evening he and the French charge d'affaires, M. Thiebaut, compared the French and American copies of the credentials of Li Hung Chang. Today he had long talks with Minister Wu and the German charge d'affaires, and the substance of these conversations he laid before the Cabinet.

It is understood that the Cabinet to day completed preparation of a plan for clearing away much of the uncertainty that now exists as to the future in China, and outlined its views in writing. The fact that the military situation is admitted to be of secondary importance confirms the view, though no Cabinet officer would vouchsafe information on this point, that what is sought is an agreement among the powers for terminating the indefinite status of affairs in China. It is believed that the point has been reached where it, is proper that there should be a clear expression of purpose on the part of the principal powers, in order that the Ufitted States government may know how far it may so consistently in the execution of the government may know how far it may go consistently in the execution of the common programme. Most of the objects had in view by the Presidenj when he made answer to the Chinese the restoration of peace and order in China."

There is reason for believing that Germany holds today that the foregoing declaration is as effective as when it was enunciated, and that any present consideration of Germany's purposes must be viewed in the light of the foregoing specific declaration of policy. For that reason, the declaration "we desire no partition of China and seek no special advantages" is said to clear away the suspicions that Germany has a far-reaching purpose of territorial acquisition in China.

Count Von Buelow's note further pointed out the scope of Germany's military measures in China, stating that "they will enable us to participate in the military action in a manner."

be best served by a speedy termination of hostilities in China.

THE OUTCOME.

It was the general understanding that the outcome of today's Cabinet meeting would be the adoption of a policy by the administration that would tend to simplify these issues, and at least bring to a focus the varying aspirations of the powers. If this cannot be done, then the question to be determined is whether or not the United States shall proceed further, hand in and with the ailled forces. It is believed that this point is very mear a decision, our determination depending upon the responses made by European nations to our inquiries. The suggestion that a conference be held of the nations represented in China is again revived as an accompaniment of this purpose, and it is polited out that with Sp. fail Commissioner Rockhill just about arriving on Chinase soil; with Mumm Von Schwarzensteft, the German successor to Baron Von Ketteler, already in China; with the ministers resident at Peking, and with the high military and naval officials in the Pel Ho Valley, the material is already at hand for the gathering of a conference fully equipped to deal with even so complex and difficult a problem as is presented in the settlement of China's future.

There are hopes that communication with China, very much delayed of late, will be better soon. Consul Fowler, at Che Foo, got a routine dispatch through today, of current date, and the Navy Department has been informed that the cable company's ship was about to leave Shanghai today to lay a direct cable connecting Shanghai with Che Foo, one of the weakest links in the chein of communication as to the opening of communication between our military and naval commanders and the authorities here have made it possible for the latter to abandon the measure our military and naval commanders and the authorities here have made it possible for the latter to abandon the measure our military and naval commanders and the authorities here have made it possible for the latter to abandon the measure our milita day summed up the international complications substantially as follows:

"The powers were in complete accord up to the time of the taking of Peking. But with that accomplished, the more important question arose as to the future course of the powers in dealing with China, and on that there is not, as yet, any complete accord. Thus far it seems plain the United States opposes the dismemberment of China, or any move toward territorial extension there, and in this position Russia and France seem to agree. On the other hand, while there is nothing definite indicating territorial expansion, yet the exchanges have led to the belief that Germany, Great Britain and probably Japan, are not averse to a course which will bring about territorial divisions within the empire.
"It was supposed Japan stood against any division of the empire, but the landing of Japanese troops at Amoy cannot be accounted for on the ground that a Japanese temple has been burned, so that it is the accepted view that Japan is at least making ready to be in a position to shore in any division of territory which must come. The course of Russia in taking New Chwang cannot be viewed in the same light as the landing of troops at Amoy or Shanghai, as this was for the sole purpose of protecting Russia's railway line, and any ulterior territorial purposes have been disclaimed by Russia.

"So far as Great Britain's purposes

The people of Chicago, being part and parcel of the great State of Illinois—the State that gave to the Union a Lincoln, and a Douglass, a Grant and a Logan, could not be other than partiotic as they were.

Commander-in-chief Shaw replied to Mayor Harrison for the members of his organization, expressing the thanks of the Grand Army for the hospitability shown them. He said:

"The comrades of the Grand Army are deeply touched by the splendor of Chicago's welcome and the wealth of her boundless hospitality. Your eloquent words find an echo in every heart before you, and 'over all the broad land they will charm and delight the aging heroes of other times and other scenes, when war's hard sacrifices filled the nation with mourning. inet were reticent and non-committal. It is learned, however, that the subject under consideration related almost exclusively to the policy of the negotiations now going on with the powers regarding China, and this, in particular, would account for the extreme caution of the Cabinet officials. It is positively asserted that no information of an alarming character had been received to necessitate the special meeting of the Cabinet, but that the meeting was devoted to discussing the progress of the exchanges with the powers. As a result of these exchanges, the policy of this government is being formulated, and at the meeting this afternoon the text of a memorandum embodying the views of the United States, which is being prepared for transmission to the foreign governments, was formally considered. This communication is said to contain the suggestions which the United States will return to the replies received by this government to its former communications.

Biennial Inspection and Review of Uniformed Rank at Belle Isle.

IA. P. DAY REPORT.!

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—Belle Isle was invaded today by the Phythian army in full force. The Knights left their encampment on the east boulevard at 16 o'clock, marched across the long bridge leading to the island park and to the play ground commons on the easterly side of the island, where the biennial inspection and review of the uniformed rank was held. The weather was clear, but a fresh north-westerly breeze blew down the river. The long line moved in column of fours down the boulevard across the bridge and through the driveways of the island.

After a deal of galloping about of the staff, brigade and regimental officers, the linspection formation was completed, two long lines of troops stretched across the great field, the brigade and regimental officers grouped to the fore in their places, the artiliery and cavalry on the left. The inspection then proceeded, the major-general and staff moving down and up the long lines. [A. P. DAT REPORT.]

The Boxers who were moving north from Shan Tung are now returning hastily to their homes.

Belated stories and stories of refugees at the Foo, continue to describe the terrible conditions in Peking. One of the worst incidents is the shocking desecration of the foreign cemetery outside the west wall. The details are too revolting to be described. Hundreds of bodies of Chinese are found in the streets of Peking, supposed to be those of traitors to the cause of the Boxers. The Shanghai correspondent of the Times says a native official telegram from Pao Ting: Fu announces the arrival of the court last Sunday at Tai Yuen Fu.

Communication between Peking and

IA. P. DAY REPORT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says that no information can be obtained here of various sensational stories telegraphed to foreign capitals in reference to the Chinese question. There is a report from St. Petersburg that a battle has taken place within the walls of Peking, and that the allies were compelled to fall back, losing 1800 men.

This alarming story produced no effect on the stock exchange or elsewhere, because it was not believed; nor is there anything to support the statement cabled by a Washington correspondent to a London newspaper that Russia has informed the United States government that she proposes to asnex Manchuria. But whether any such declaration has actually been made to any power not much doubt need be felt that it merely embodies Russia's intentions, subject only to her ability to meet the opposition which the annexation of Manchuria would be sure to encounter from Japan. In fact, the process has already begun, since the annexation of Manchuria would be sure to encounter from Japan. In fact, the process has already begun, since Russia is quietly assimilating Chinese territory south of the Amoor River. In some quarters it is thought that the landing of Japanese troops at Amoy is the Japanese answer to these Muscovite moves. The British Consul at Shanghal has been appealed to by

I do not believe that the Constitution contains any disabiling inhibitions which will prevent this government from governing, and governing those islands as their best interests may demand and according to the capacities of their people. No such difficulties intervened in the administration of Louisiana, Florida, or the territory which we acquired from Mexico. Congress legislated at the last session in regard to the government of Alaska in some particulars entirely unwarranted by the Constitution, if the disabiling construction placed upon it by our opponents is correct. There are certain large and general considerations, however, which, to my mind, demonstrate that the authority to govern these dependencies is vested in Congress, subject to no disabiling limitations of certain provisions of the Constitution, which, because they are inapplicable to such a situation, never could have been designed by the framers to apply to it.

"I believe it never was heard before that any constitutional government with the full and convelet accounts."

Speaking my own opinion, I would hold the Philippines, permanently, and not provisionally. I would, from time to time, as their people demonstrate their capability, give them the fullest power of self-government they are capable of exercising. I would do as Great Britain did with a race of the same stock in the Straits Settlements where, fifty years ago, she found a barbarous population ruled by three separate Sultans, making war on each other and infesting the seas with piracy. Little by little she has given them self-government, until their self-administration is now almost complete. It is one of the most productive, prosperous and beaceful communities in the world. [A. P. NIGHT REPORTS]

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—At an early hour this morning. John R. Rogers was nominated for the office of governor by the Fusionists in Union convention. The eighth ballot which landed him the nomination stood: Rogers, 70445; Fawcett, 24145; Voorhies, 11; Cheetham, 43; Thurston Daniels, 55.

Upon the organization of the three conventions here Monday, the Democrats and Populists by good-sized majorities opposed the governor's nomination. Rogers, however, had a splendid organization and held all of its delegates. Last night they succeeded in winning over Stevens county, and this, together with several other small changes in their tavor, gave them conthis, together with several either small changes in their favor, gave them con-trol of the Union convention which met yesterday.

both Republicans and Democrats are making their best efforts. It is a time of year when the intelligent prediction as to the outcome is impossible, because not less than one-third of each party is diseastisfied with the other. The Democrats have put an exceptionally strong ticket in the field, and they will not only have a larger vote than usual, but are likely to increase their representation in the next House of Representation in the next House of Representatives to fifty or more. In 1896 there were eleven Democrats in the House, and in 1898 there were forty-two. The vote for the State ticket in September in Vermont is virtually a vote for President.

The November election is simply a catification of the vote in September, and never approximates the latter figures. The normal Republican majority in Vermont is 25,000. Anything under that is considered encouraging for the Democrats, and anything above 30,000 is healed with delight by Republicans. In 1896 the Republican majority in Vermont was 33,500, the largest in the history of the State. The Republicans in the Republican majority next Tuesday will be between 31,000 and 33,000.

What troubles Republican lesders in Vermont most is general apathy. The Republicans are so confident that Mc-Kinley will be elected that thousands will stay at home on election day unless special efforts are made to get them to

In addition to agreeing that the ticket should be called Democratic, the com-mittee agreed upon the following: That the union convention shall con-sist of all delegates accredited on the

That the two-thirds rule shall prevail in the nomination of candidates.

The union convention assembled shortly after 1 o'clock in the Armory. with Robert Bridges in the chair. The first move of importance was the nominations for Congress. Col. F. C. A motion was made that the two men be declared the unanimous choice of the convention, for Congress, and this was done after the withdrawal of Thurston Daniels, Clarke county's candidate for Congressman.

Shrewd Capitalists Anticipate a Demand for Coal for Export-A Big Future.

[A. P. DAT REPORT.]

IA. P. DAY REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—In an interview William Salomon, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, said that that road was not building ships to transport coal to Europe. He expressed the opinion that the railroads generally would "keep off the water." He said that the facilities for shipping coal which were being constructed at Curits Bay, near Baltimore would be completed in about thirty days, and that their cost, including the cost of improving the track and roadbed from Baltimore to Curtis Bay would approximate $500,000.

"These facilities will be useful to the company" said Salomon, "whether the prospective export coal trade of the United States materializes or not. A large amount of coal is transported by whith to New England and experience.

prospective export coal trade of the United States materialises or not. A large amount of coal is transported by ship to New England and other points on the North American continent. If the European export trade comes alling we shall also be prepared to meet it, but the business of the Baltimore & Ohio will be, as heretofore, the transportation of coal from the mines to tide water. All I am willing to say refarding the possibilities of a European market for American coal is, shat if the price of coal in England ontinues high, there will undoubtedly be a prefit in shipping American sett coal to the Mediterranean ports of Europe. At present, the difficulty is to secure vessels to carry the coal, but if the price of British coal remains high new ships will undoubtedly be provided."

It is announced that many far-seeing capitalists have invested heavily in coal mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia recently, in anticipation of the increase in the demand for coal for export. Among those who were reported to have made such ivestments was John E. Berwind of the Berwind-White Coal Company of this city.

"It is true," said Berwind, "that I am

"It is true," said Berwind, "that I am purchasing coal mines from time to time as the growth of our business warrants it, my belief is that there will be a great future for American coal in Europe. Coal exportation is an absolutely new thing in the coal business, and like all new things should be taken up cautiously and conservatively. I know that some persons believe the foreign demand will probably be temporary. I am not of their number. I think American coal will always be a factor in the European markets. I think American shippers can offer coal cheaper than the English shippers, even if the price of English coal should be reduced. The chief difficulty at present is to secure transportation for coal from this countrily to Europe. This is due in port to the withdrawal of many ships by the English and other European governments for the transportation of troops. I am told that 3,000,000 tons of shipping have been so withdrawn during the past year. There is a prospect that this lack of shipping may be filled in the not-distant future. There has been some tolk of some of the American rollroad companies building ships large enough to carry coal economically to Europe, and there has also been talk of the coal operatives building such vessels. So far as I con say, this matter has not yet scotten beyond the stage of securing estimates by boat builders, but if the European market for coal continues strong there is every reason to expect the creation of means to fill the demand."

William L. Sweet, general sales egent of the Clearfield bituminous coal corporation, swes:

of the Clearfield bituminous coal corporation, sovs:

"We regard hopefully the possibilities of opening up an extensive coal export business to Europe. We have done no exporting ourselves, and do not anticipate such action in the near future, but we hove received, however, inquiries for coal from Germany, France, Italy and Exput. These inaulries come from coal dealers who supply the product for manufacturing and domestic purposes. While we are not exporting coal ourselves, we are selling our product to brokers and exporters, as it would require a great deal of capital to engage directly in the export trade. A large complication would be required and there would be a risk in collecting money."

Hon. Charles S. Manderson, the President, Delivers His Annual Address.

[A. P. DAY REPORT.]

SARATOGA (N. Y...) Aug. 29.—The opening session of the twenty-third annual meeting of the American Bar iation was held today. The presi-Association was need today. The president's address was delivered by ex-Senator Charles F. Manderson of Omaha, Neb., communicating the most noteworthy changes in statute law on points of general interest adopted in several States and by Congress during he preceding years.

MANDERSON'S ADDRESS. The Hon. Charles S. Manderson, the

The Hon. Charles S. Manderson, the president, in his annual address, spoke first of the purposes and the results accomplished by the American Bar Association during the twenty-three years of its history.

"The high purpose and lofty aim of the founders," he said, "is well expressed in its constitution. It declared the object to be to advance the science of jurisprudence, promote the administration of justice and uniformity of legislation throughout the Union; uphold the honor of the profession of law, and encourage social intercourse among the members of the American bar.

among the members of the American bar.

"It has justified its existence by its accompilehments," he said. "The persistent industry and acknowledged ability of its members, whether exerted in private capacity, on its committees, or at its annual meetings, has accomplished many of the ends in view, and been productive of good to the general public.

or at its annual meetings, has accomplished many of the ends in view, and been productive of good to the general public.

"The association has not rested content with mere theorising. It has profited by the teachings of the leaders of thought, and brought about amps of the reforms so ably advocated.

"The section of legal education has displayed an activity and persistence that has brought about a more thoration of units of the capacity of applicants for admission, the creation of State boards of examiners and a near approach to uniformity of the statutes governing those who would enroil themselves as lawyers. Mr. Chostes says that the result has challenged the admiration of jurists everywhere, and declares that this development of professional education and training is the best fruit yet borne from the careful studies and isbors of the association.

"Much has been said of the advisability and the many benefits derivable from uniformity of statutes among the states. We cannot overestimate the importance of uniform laws upon matters incident to commercial law, such as acts relating to negotiable instruments and bills of exchange, concerning days of groce and the collection of debts. If the laws relating to deeds, willia and descent, were alike the country over, the best legislation surviving, how much of needless, expensive and troublesome litigation would be saved.

"If has been truly said, "like-mind-edness, is the cause of all social stability." The instability of the relation of destination of unraise, the frauds perpetrated upon. A uniform divorce law would hold to maintain and sensitiy that sefeguard of American life—the home, "although much has been done by the association through the medium of the original principles."

"All the general session tonight, a parting the way from the many fraction of a state of a lease unauthorised by the activation of profits the effect of a lease unauthorised by the activation of profits and the complete of the state of a lease unauthorised by the other fraction of the car its brutality."

After referring to the death of prominent members, Edward John Phelps, William Crowninshield Endicott, Sherman Skinner Rogers and also Lord Russall, he noted a constant increase in the number of State bar associations, nearly three hundred having reported to the secretary.

He expressed the hope that every member of the association would association where the secretary of the property of the secretary of the sec grand total) of 14,159 laws in the States alone. The proportion is as large in 1900, the only relief being that rawer States held legislative sessions. Gentlemen of the American Bar Association, you can do much to bring about a better condition by vigorous efforts inculcating in the pulic mind the well-recognized doctrine that 'that government is best which governs the least.' In commenting upon the trouble in Kentucky, the president said, "quiet reigns in Warsaw. Kentucky apparently is quiescent, but the seeds of trouble remain in her legislation, ready to sprout and bring as the harvest more trouble and greater troggedies, unless the corrective is applied."

Commendatory reference was made to the anti-lobby act passed by the General Assembly of Maryland. It is in great measure modeled after a similar statute of Massachusetts, which is skid to have worked well, with an additional provision giving the Governor power in asse he has reason to believe money has been improperly used in connection with any bill, to require a statement of expenditures in connection therewith before approving such bill.

A striking instance that the power to tax is the power to destroy is shown by the action of the Governor of New Jersey, by virtue of statutes of the State passed in 1896, providing that when corporations neglected to pay State taxes for two years, their charters should be declared void, and all the state passed in the state passe

The Governor took such action by proclamation dated May 2, 1899, as to 656 corporations, and on the second day of May 1900, as to 657 more, thus at two "fell swoops" wiping out the life of over thirteen hundred corporate combinations, covering every conceivable branch of manifesture and commended.

The report of the treasurer, Francis Rawle of JPhiladelphia, gave a receipts as $11.691 and the disbursements as $3234, leaving a balance of $3456. Reports were also submitted by the zecretary, John Hinkley, of Baltimore and by the Executive Committee.

"Although much has been done by the association through the medium of the conference of the State commissions on uniform State laws, which has its being in thirty-two States, there is much yet to be done.

"Sad to say, The Hegue conference, that seemed to be the rainbow of promise, appeared rather to be the signal for increased armies instead of disarmanent and renewed activity in preparation of conflict. War is in the air. But let us not despair. Even if the evolution of perpetual peace seems farther off than a year ago, still there is much that can be done by our Committee on International Law, and by the association in mitigating the horrors of war and to humanize some of its brutality."

MURDERER

Trial of Bresci, the Anarchist, at Milan-Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

MILAN, August 23.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The trial of Bresoi, the anarchist who, on July 29, shot and killed King Humbert of Italy, at Monsa while His Majesty was returning from a gymnastic exhibition, opened here today. An immense crowd of people gathered about the court from early morning, seeking admission to the courtroom, where only a few places were reserved for the ticket-holding public. The hearing began at 3 o'clock. Bresoi sat in the dock, calm and almost indifferent. His counsel, Sig. Martelli, head of the Milan bar and the anarchist writer, Sig. Morlin, made requests on various grounds for an adjournment, which were refused. It is said that Bresoi wrote to the judges quests on various grounds for an adjournment, which were refused. It is said that Bresci wrote to the judges declaring that he would not reply to the interrogatories.

While the indictment, which was very long, was being read, Bresci was apparently unmoved and scanned the faces of the audience without any signs of fear. The indictment showed that the assassin industed in incessant tar-declaring that he would not reply to the other, that the act is merely illegal. The latter theory is the one now generally accepted.

"An ultra vires lease is to be considered first, as a contract; and second, as a conveyance. After discussing the numerous conflicting authorities, and pointing out the particulars in which the United States Supreme Court has recently departed from some of the principles isid down by Justice Story and Justice Miller, the results of the writer's examination of the authorities are summed us as follows:

"(1) The lease as a contract is wold, and no action can be brought upon it; and no action can be brought upon it; except in those jurisdictions where the defense of ultra vires is excluded in actions on contracts fully or partially executed, on the alleged ground of exception for the use of its property under the lease, the amount of such compensation being determined by equitable principles.

"(2) The lessor is entitled to compensation for the use of its property under the lease, the amount of such compensation being determined by equitable principles.

"(3) An ultra vires lease of a railroad or other property burdened with duties to the public, on principle might be regarded as void. So far as the obligations of the lessor is relieved of no obligation by the lease; but as between the lessor and the lessor is relieved of no obligation by the lease; but as between the lessor and the lessor to the public are concerned the lessor is relieved of no obligation by the lease; but as between the lessor and the lessor to the public are concerned the lessor is relieved of no obligation by the lease; but as between the lessor and the lessor the public are concerned the lessor is relieved of no obligation by the lease; but as between the lessor and the lessor the public are concerned the lessor is relieved of no obligation by the lease; but as between the lessor and the lessor the public are concerned the lessor is relieved of the uncertainty as to the application of the uncertainty as to the

The King stopped in the middle of the sentence, said "yes," and then extended the sentence, said "yes," and then extended the sentence of witnesses Galimbert and Oliviers did not adduce any new facts.

The royal groom, Lupi, deposed that he seized Bresci by the throat. A witness named Ramilla, who lodged with Bresci, and a friend of his prior to the crime, said the prisoner was always perfectly calm.

The remainder of the witnesses did not throw any further light on the tragedy.

not throw any nurther light on the tragedy.

The public prosecutor made a speech, during the course of which he eulogised the virtues of King Humbert, and repeated the story of the assossination, which, he contended, demonstrated that Bresci was fully responsible for his peaced the story of the assassination, which, he contended, demonstrated that Bresci was fully responsible for his acts, and that the latter premeditated the crime and had accomplices. After denouncing the anarchist theories which brought about such fearful crimes, the public prosecutor denied that Bresci had misery as an excuse, also asserting that he was not a man of impulse or a fanatic, but had a calm, synical and obstinate mind, and that his aim was infamous.

In conclusion the public prosecutor asked for a verdict of guilty without extenuating circumstances.

Although there were few witnesses called, the trial lasted from 9 o'clock in the morning until a late hour in the minutes to deliberate. With absolute indifference Bresci received the verdict, and was led away to his cell, where henceforth he will see no one and hear no one, not even the jailor.

He gave the impression of an emissary enable of acting coolly, but incapable of conceiving the plan. Notwithstanding his statements in the course of examination that he had no relations with anarchists when in America, he admitted having received 500 lire at Genoa from Paterson.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

[A. P. DAY REPORT.]

MILAN, August 29.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Bresci, at the close of the trial, was pronounced guilty and sentenced to imprisenment for life.

Bresel escaped with life imprisonment, as that penalty is the most severe which can be imposed under the laws of Italy for murder, on which charge the anarchist was tried. It was at first believed Bresci would be tried on the charge of ireason, in which case the penalty would have been death.

Brescci was given an opportunity to speak and said:

"Sentence me, I am indifferent. I await the next revolution."

The persons who were to deliberate on the verdict then retired. LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

INT DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. D.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] What is expected to be one of the most scientific of glove contests between heavyweights will come off in Medison Square darden tomorrow night, between J. J. Corbett and "Kid McCoy." To outward appearance, there is considerable bad blood between these men. They have indused in two altercations, in barrooms, one of which put Corbett in bed for several days. Corbett has everything to lose and gothing to gain by whipping McCoy, while the "Kid" has the chance of he life to win the fille of the "eleverest boxer in the word" if he besits the "pompadour" mus, for Corbett and McCoy today, are indoubtedly the most scientific boxers in the profession, and for that reason here is an unusual amount of curlosity to see them put up their hands. Corbett is taller, and heavier, and has been in the ring longer than McCoy. If Jim is fit, as fit as when he made his wonderful showing against leffries, the fight, will be exceptionally fast. Corbett will probably force matters, but in such a manner that McCoy will have to strain a point to land an effective punch.

It is conceded that both men are in the pink of condition. Those who think Corbett will probably force matters, but in such a manner that McCoy, and that the "Kid" will he hooked out, or outpointed, because Corbett will land two Glows to the Hoosier lad's one. They also claim that Corbett will show hitting power enough to stop McCoy effectually, and that though the "Kid" is a dangerous puncher, he will not be able to break through Jim's defense.

On the other hand, McCoy's followers say that he will knock Corbett out as sure as the sun rises, for he will get to him with his left, in which there are better blows than any Corbett can show. McCoy can take all of Corbett's pinches, too, they say, though he will show cleveness enough to avoid many of them. The betting is practically at evens, and thousands went juto the pool boxes at those odds tonight.

ROW AT WHITTIER. James Harvey of Los Angeles ican-Battery Charged.

James Harvey of Los Angeles was roughly handled Tuesday forenoon at from Justice Baldwin's court in a case pending agoinst him, wherein he is charged with retailing liquor without a license, or, in other words, conducting a "bind pig" at Pico Crossing, one and one-half miles this side of Whittier.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Quinn was an eye-witness of the little episode, and is authority for the statement that the ex-poker-room proprietor go licked with neatness and dispatch.

Mr. Quinn said last night that Harvey had subpoenaed 150 witnesses for his defense, among them being fifty women from Rivera, members of a temperance organization. Many of the people summoned know nothing about him, or the offense with which he was charged, it is said. Among them was Ramon Vejar and his son, Mose, about 17 years old, who live near Santa Monica.

After all the witnesses appeared at Justice Buldwin's court at Whittier Tuesday forenoon and he had secured a change of venue, Mose Vejar accosted him outside, it is said, asking him what he meant by summoning his father, when the old man was not even acquainted with him and had never been in his place. Harvey is alleged to have called Mose a vile name and said that he would draghin all over the county as much as he pleased.

Then hostilities opened in earnest. Mose slapped Harvey full in the face with the flat of his hand, and Harvey went at Mose. The youth deftly parried the big man's blows and planted a stinging right-hander over one of his eyes, knocking him off his feet. Harvey got up and was met with another dose of the same kind.

Then Harvey is said to have pulled a gun from his hip pocket, but before he could use it he was again knocked down. His weapon fell to the ground and Pola Rendon, a Mexican boy about 18 years old, took it and ran, turning it over to Charles Freeman.

Harvey afterward swore out battery complaints against Mose, Vejar, Pola Rendon and Reolota Rendon.

ITALIAN VIRGINAL SIXTEENTH CEN TURY. (South Kensington Museum.) the earliest monochords were stretched by means of weights, some varieties mentloned by Greek theorists having as many as four strings. Soon a primitive form of keyboard, such as had been used with antiquated organs, was applied to the monochord. In time the movable bridge was replaced by an upright wedge attached to the key lever, which, when the key was pressed by the finger, struck the string, set it in vibration and simultaneously shortened it to the length indicated by the keys' position. From this modified monochord there was but a brief transition to the clavichord (from "clavis," a key, and "chorda," a string,) which, in spite of its increasing number of keys and strings, kept the name of monochord as late as the sixteenth century. It was probably in reference to this instrument that the following letter was written by the poet Bembo to his daughter:

"Touching thy desire to learn to play upon the monochord. I answer, since because of they tender years thou canst not know of thyself, that playing is suited only for vain and frivolous women; but I desire thee to be the purest and most lovable maiden in the world. Moreover, thou wouldst have musical declamation, best described as "tone painting," did much to prove the superiority of this instrument for vigor, sonorousness and sustained melody. Its capabilities for light and shade also-commended it to the general public, but it was not until metal bracing was successfully used in its construction that the plano definitely superseded its predecessors. Metal was first used for strengthening and then for making the entire frame, when it became possible to secure the purest and most brilliant tones by means of heavy strings under great tension. The finest treble string of the modern instrument is thicker than the thickest bass string of the first planos, whose tension was correspondingly slight when wood offered the only resistance. This vast difference is more readily appreciated when we realize that the strings of the modern grand concert plano exert a force of 75,000 pounds, only the solidity of the irron frame preventing its entire destruction.

Although the modern instrument has gained steadily in strength and mechanism, its outward proportion and decoration have undoubtedly fallen from grace. But Mr. Bryan has at last made this much plain: "Anti-imperialism" surrender all rights that we have acquired in the Philippines; and that we are to have absolutely nothing whatever to do with the government of those islands in the future. In view of the immense and unexpected sacrifices which the United States has made in acquiring the Philippines it remains to be seen how popular Mr. Brayn's grand policy will be with the American people.—[Richmond Times.

A KANSAS soldier boy back from the Philippines writes to the Fort Scott Monitor:

"As I have said that I intended to vote the Republican ticket, the question has been asked a great many times by my fflends, who know I am a Populist, why I have changed. I think no wrong can be done by staing through the Monitor what is the cause of my action. When Co. F went to Manila I was a Populist. The soldiers were all well treated and well cared for by the government. Reading matter, among other things, was abundant. We had papers of all parties and read them all. "Every paper in favor of the administration did us good and encouraged us. Every time one of those bitter anti-administration speeches was made Agulnaido and his officers would print it in a dozen different languages and circulate it by the hundred thousands. It is a fact that all our soldiers knew, that these speeches and the opposition papers cost the lives of hundreds of men and prolonged the war. There is no chance to question it. We had Hoar's and Atkinson's and Lentz's speeches quoted to us all the time, and the Tagnis thought that the government was in bad condition at home. This gave them courage and kept them fighting.

Under all the circumstances, are these the words of a wise, dispassionate man, of a statesman and a patriot, or do they spring from a brain disordered by blind prejudice? Do you toss your hat in air with cheers for Boutwell?

E DWARD M. SHEPARD'S apology is an analogy. He state DWARD M. SHEPARD'S apology is an analogy. He strives to excuse his "ratting" to Bryanism by drawing a parallel between 1862 and 1990. In the former year, he tells us, in order to save the Union and to free the negroes this government adopted a paper currency. In the latter year, in order to defeat what he regards as the pernicious heresles of "imperialism," he is willing for the country to adopt the free colonge of silver at 16 to 1—that is to say, a depreciated and dishonest currency. It will obviously occur to the discriminating render that Mr. Shepard's analogy is false and his logic hopelessly bad.

Shepard's analogy is false and his logic hopelessly bad.

In the first place, the paper currency of 1882, though for a time depreciated, was never dishonest. It was ultimately redeemed to the uttermost cent at par in gold. There never was a greenback issued which the government did not intend thus to redeem, and which it in time did not thus redeem upon demand. Mr. Shepard knows perfectly well, according to his own better utterances of four years ago, that such would not be the case with the 50-cent silver dollars which he is now trying to foist upon the nation. He must realize that it is the rankest sophistry to try to establish an analogy between an honest and a dishonest currency—[New York Tribune.

VEATHER YESTERDAY.

Lieut. F. B. Upham, the navy of-ficer enlisting men for the service in this city, is a zon of the late Maj. Upham, accidently kulled at the Sol-dlers' Home some time ago. Mr. Upham served with Dewey on the U.S.S. Olympia at the battle of Ma-nila.

U.S.S. Olympia at the battle of Manifia.

He is assisted in the work of recruiting by Dr. Page of the navy, and a couple of seamen. The sending of a navy surgeon here was a blow to the contract doctors, who received so much per man while an army recruiting office was located here.

The aversion that regulars have for wearing uniforms in the street, prevents "Matinde Giris" Row," at the end of which the recruiting office is located, from being enlivened by much gold lace. Lifeut. Upham and his little staff, in the privacy of their office, are scrumptions figures in white duck.

Lieut. Upham suffered for his country yesterday morning.
It came about through his enlisting a husky youngster who yearned to be a sallor bold. He was eighteen years of age and over, so in accordance with the customs of the service it was not required of him that he bring the consent of his parents.

Yesterday morning, the navy officer was pounced upon by an infuriated father and mother, who looked upon him and the service with dark suspicion.

him and the service who his?" they demanded belligerently, flourishing a paper at him.

It seemed that their boy had come home with a certificate upon him and calmly notified them that he had passed under another authority than theirs.

nome with a certificate upon him and catin.

Interest there is a special grid out the mother cut him off.

The idea!" she stormed. "The idea of you sneaking in and trying to take our boy away from us."

"Just when we get our children ready to be of some help to us. some-body like you comes sneaking in to take them away from us."

Finally it developed that there is a special grievance; that the box is an inmate of the Whittier School and that they only lately put up $100 bonds that they might enjoy his scelety once more. This put a different phase on the matter. Upham told them at once that he would investigate. The navy does not want any reform-school sallors.

"Leave the paper," he said, referring to the certificate from the reform school, "and I will have it looked up."

"Leave it," said the woman, "leave it;" The cold scorn of her tone was simply withering. "Well, I guess I will not leave a chicken at a cake walk. The navy officer felt as if the previous good reputation of his calling were unity foliow. Lieut. Upham will be obliged to reject the boy, and the mother will believe to her dying day that she caught him and Uncle Sam in a disreputable scheme and they were only folied by her maternal vigilance.

His Farewell.

Last night, J. Rush Bronson, the retiring manager of the Orpheum, gave a handsome spread to the employés who have composed his staff at the theater. It took place behind the scenes after the last curtain went down, and was a jolly affair. There was a note of sadness, however, in it, for it was the parting. What might have been a serious fire, had it started at night during the absence of the officials, occurred in the City Hall shortly after a s'clock year terday afternoon. The windows of the office of City Electrician Francis are equipped with fireproof shutters to protect the very valuable apparatus contained in that office. One of these shutters became loose and a force of men was at work making its fastenings to the walls more secure. To do this they were pouring melted sulphur into the holes in the brick work around the bars which hold the shutter in place. In some manner, the sulphur reached the inside of the window casing in the space where the sash

It was for the purpose of ascertaining whether the protest was well founded that the inspection was made. Adams Street Improvement.

Some of the property owners on dams street from Main to Figueroa or Hoover street propose to petition the City Council for the partial reimprovement of that street in a manner which would be inexpensive, and still would give excellent results. The street is one of the widest in the city, and is used much by owners of fine private vehicles. The property owners desire that the City Council order the street department to go over the street thoroughly with the steam roller owned by the city, using the long spikes which can be fitted to the wheels, so as to first tear up the surface. Then they desire to have a scraper put on, and after it has been leveled, to have the street rolled with the steam roller, which weighs about twenty tons. The only cost would be the wages of the men operating the machines and the work could be completed in ten days. It is expected that the matter will be brought to the attention of the Council at its next meeting. The street is now year work. or Hoover street propose to petition the

The dusky defendant has been on trial so often for petty larceny that it is hard to find a Jury that is not bissed against him. Russell and his brother, Glenn, are almost continually resting under the HEIRS AND LEGATEES.

THE BEQUESTS.

The detectives at once recognized the suspect as their old acquaintance, Hilliard Russell, and went to his domicile with a search warrant. They found the house sumptuously furnished with lace curtains, rugs, feather pillows, bed linen, etc. Bristel, who accompanied the officers in their search, readily identified a lot of the furnishings as his goods. He picked out six fat and downy feather pillows, four point lace curtains, one bed comforter, two sheets, one mirror and ten assorted carpet and Turkish rugs, as having come-from his establishment by the process of theft.

Russell was, accordingly, arrested for petry larceny, and promptly gave bail for his appearance in court. He professes to be able to prove that he hought the goods in question of another second-hand dealer, and is putting on a bold front, as though not in the least disconcerted by the charge against him.

Bristol was the only witness examined yesterday. He made a complete identification of the seized goods as his property, and related the circumstances under which the stuff disappeared.

The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning, and will probably last the remainder of the day, as there are many witnesses to be acamined, and Russell, with the assistance of a lawyer of his own race, is making a vigorous defense.

BANG, SPLASH WENT THE ROCK.

Breakwater Work for San Pedro Harbor Resumed Yesterday.

With a mighty splash that drenched he trestle and made the welkin ring p.m. yesterday.

It was a small beginning, for the treetle extended on the seawall site only far enough to allow one car to be unloaded at a time, but the work is going on at a pace that will increase the rock-dumping capacity by a big ratio. Two geongs of pile drivers, working neck and neck like a team, are building rock-dumping capacity by a big ratio. Two gongs of pile drivers, working neck and neck like a team, are building a double trestle over the area where rock was placed by Heldmaier & Neu. Twenty-nine carloads of rock from the Declez quarry were hauled into the San Pedro yards Tuesday. Two small trainloads of a half dozen cars each were pulled up the grade yesterday afternoon and sidetracked to await unloading. The commencement of rock-dropping operotions was delayed a few hours by the incompleted scale facilities. Shortly before 4 p.m. the last spike on the rails at the weigh-house was driven and the first carload of rock was weighed by representatives of Capt. J. J. Meyler, Corps of Engineers, U.S.A., who has the supervision and inspection of the breakwater work for the government. The gross weight was 70,550 pounds. The cor when unloaded weighed 19,660 pounds, making the net weight of the rock 50,890 pounds cach. The contractor's compensation of 34.4 cents per ton is based on long tons. Most of the cars are loaded more heavily, and they will probably average thirty tons each.

After having been officially weighed the loaded car was run out on the trestle. The track was not laid far enough to run over the official end of the breakwater site, but the rock dropped from it contributed to the westerly slope from the seawall's end. Southern Pacific locomotive No. 1606 had the distinction of pushing the car. Willis Faust was at the throttle and G. F. Clough, the conductor, waved the train along ever so carefully so that the car might be stopped as far out as possible without dropping off the end of the rails. W. C. Wilkinson, assistant to H. H. Burton, the government engineer in local charge, threw off the first rock fragment, but C. A. Sheldrick, in charge at the contractor's office, wrestled with the first stone of consequence that was cast into the sea.

Half an hour was consumed in unloading the cas. That work was done by hond, which method will be employed temporarily. One more carload of rock was dropped before Vigorous Campaign Against the Saloon in Progress-Strong Showing.

VENTURA, Aug. 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] The temperance element is making a vigorous campaign against the saloons in this county, in a well-organized and political-like manner. Total prohibition is desired. Petitions, with the desired ordinance printed thereon, are hearn circulated for size. thereon, are being circulated for sig-natures throughout the county. There are thirty-five solicitors at work, and each receives $2 per day of eight hours. each receives $2 per day of eight hours. To date 1400 voters have signed. About 1800 signatures are required. Each so-licitor is a duly appointed registration clerk. All unregistered voters who sign the petition are registered. In this manner every person favorable to pro-hibition will be able to vote on election

The work is under the direct management of Rev. C. K. Westfell, who devotes his entire time to the matter. He receives a salary.

There is a fund of $2000 in the bank as a starter. To make the fight the reformers have promised an additional $8000 if it is required. It seems that there is an abundance of money. Over $1200 was obtained through monthly contributed $14. There are several large individual donations. One silent worker gave $200, and is willing to respond again. The State Anti-Salcon League is supporting the movement.

The required number of signatures will be secured within the next ten days. The petition will be carefully perused, and all doubtful names will be stricken off. The mommoth petition will be filed with the Board of Supervisors at the October session.

Within two weeks temperance speakers will commence lecturing throughout the county on the subject. A hot campaign will be waged.

In the country districts 90 per cent. of the voters approached signed the petitions, while in the city only 50 per cent. signed. A prominent ilquor dealer of this city signed, greatly to the surprise of the solicitor and the temperance element. It is generolly conceded that it will be a successful crusade.

be emptied at once and it will not be long before the wharf will be in condition for the handling of 100 corloads of rock per day if need be.

While the first rock was falling into the sea a number of blasts were shot ton Palos Verdes hill by Roman Sepulveda. That was the only demonstration over the event.

EFFORTS AT HINDRANCE.

Referring to efforts made to prevent canal legislation and to discredit the project, Mr. Wood stored that he was informed by Hon. William L. Merry, an anthority, that the San Blas route has been twice examined by United States engineer officers, besides which investigations have been made by private parties, and in every instance the route has been condemned as more expensive and difficult than either the Panama or Nicarcagin routes. Mr. Wood said he was informed by reliable authority that a Ponama sea-level canal is impossible without, a tidal lock at the Pacific terminus, so that that end would not be open over one-half of each tide of six hours.

"Statements tending to injure the Nicoragua Canal project will continue to be circulated by the French Panama Company and their allies for the time being, the opposing rollway corporations, which are firmly intremed at Washington, and propose defeating any canal legislation in the Senate during the next session of Congress If it can be done," said Mr. Wood. "Fortustately, however, it will be just as impossible for one or two rallroads to present Los Angeles becoming a great city as to forever thwart the will of the people in their demand for an isthmian canal, and why should they oppose the inevitable? Instead of injuring the rallroads, the canal will benefit them. Where they have one pound of freight today to houl to distant points at comporatively low rates, they will then have several pounds for delivery at many intermediate points at good figures, for as previously stated the wonderful development that the Pacific Coast is now wincessing will have largely increased our population, and manufacturing on an extensive scale will then be engaged in, both for home consumption and to supply the demands of the Orient."

M. Ross's recent decision in favor of the "scrippers." The battle was be-gun in earnest at the Federal building yesterday. The cases now on trial are the first brought by the "scrippers" since Judge Ross made his famous de-cision, and are test suits to disposses imperated in the control of the control o POINTS IN THE CASE.

The points at issue have been re-counted many times. Under the act of Congress approved June 4, 1897, per-sons holding land within the United States forest reserves were privileged to deed their property to the govern-ment and receive in lieu thereof land the government and surrender his scrip in payment. At the expiration of a in payment. At the expiration of a certain time a government patent was issued to the person making the filing, and thereupon the legal title to the land, passed to him. After the patent was issued the land was owned in fee simple, and the person who had made the filing was unquestionably entitled to benefits accruing from the discovery of minerals or petroleum on the land. The doubtful point was whether an equitable title to the land passed to the "scripper" at the time the filing was made in the United States Land Office.

the agricultural claim, but develop-ment was not at once begun. A notice that Clark had made a selection of the land was duly published, and within the required sixty days a protest was filed in the land office by the mineral claimants. The case was then sub-mitted on protest to the General Land Office. About February 1 of this year the defendant companies began drilling for oil, and eventually found petroseum in large and paying quantities.

for oil, and eventually found petroleum in large and paying quantities.

The facts in the case of the Pacific Land and Improvement Company vs. the Elwood Oil Company et al., are not dissimilar from those in the first case. In December, 1899, J. R. Johnson was the owner of eighty acres in the forest reserve. This land was deeded to the government, and a filing on the acreage in question made with the lieu land scrip. The land in question, it is alleged, had been for more than a year unappropriated and vacant public land, listed as agricultural in character, and contained no "known minerals or salines." Johnson filed his non-mineral affidavit and his selection of land was approved by the Receiver and Register of the Visalia Land Office. On April fi of this year Johnson conveyed the land to the complainant company.

The defendants hase their claim to

BLOODSHED IN THE AIR.

It is alleged in the complaint that angry and violent feelings exist in the minds of people in the community against persons seeking to acquire title under the "scrippers" locations and that none dare show sympathy "for fear of personal violence and social ostracism." The complaint, continues: "The mineral claimants have said that there is no law in the land that can deprive them of their holdings and that death and bloodshed will follow any attempt to enforce a decree of the count to that effect." For this reason a receiver is asked for by the plaintiffs, it being alleged that there is no other way in which the matter can be peaceably adjusted.

fice. On Asril fl of this year Johnson conveyed the land to the compainant company.

The defendants base their claim to the land on a placer mining location made June II, 1899. The plaintiff asserts that the mineral location was void, because not based on any actual discovery of oil, and the defendants contend that the scrip location was void, as the land was open to entry and exploration for minerals until the issuance of a government patent. This case, like the other, is pending before the Commissioner of the General Land Office on a protest, to the scrip location filed by the mineral land claimants. Motions have been made by the plaintiffs to dismiss the cases before the Commissioner, on the ground that the time of the filing of the placerclaim, and that the subsequent discovery of petroleum cannot operate to change the character of the land. During January of this year oil in paying quantities was found on the land by the defendant companies.

Both complaints ask for a temporary injunction, which upon final hearing shall be made perpetual, and for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the property pending a final settlement.

JOHNSTON WAS WILLING.

Held Up and Robbed of Twelve Dollars by Two Men With a Gun.

John J. Johnston, a fruit peddier, about 60 years old, who lives at No. 1412 East Eighth street, bumped up against the festive hold-up men at $,30 o'clock last night, at the corner of Tenth and Santee streets, while on his way to his lodgings after finishing up the business of the day.

Mr. Johnston, who secures his fruit in the morning at the City Market, and peddies around town during the day in a one-horse rig, was proceeding leisurely on foot, well satisfied with the day's proceeds, when sudden; two men confronted him and ocdered "hands up," one of them lending emphasis to the command with a Colt's 45-caliber revolver.

"Well, you seem to be the doctor," acquiesced Johnston, and up went his hands without further parloy. The man with the gun kept him covered while the second footpa is earched his pockets for valuables. According to the "doctor," Johnston's symptoms seemed to indicate that he was afflicted with too much silver, and he was speedlij bled. There was netween $12 and $13 of the white metal on his person, and it was transferred to the pockets of the other fellows, after which he was ordered to go his way, and be quick about it, as well as discreet.

Friday will be a red-letter day for the Ojal Oil Company. On this day the drill on the company's large holdings north of Newhall will be sent to earth for the first time. Operations have been delayed for several weeks on account of having to pipe water to the scene of operation, but now that this has been done the work should proceed with speed.

Well No. 3 of the Fullerton Oil Company gives good indications. The hole is now 760 feet deep, and there are several feet of oil in the bottom.

Operations have been suspended in the first well of the Pacific Consolidated Oil Company until a standard rig can be put in place. This company has a hole bored in the dry region half way between Sunset and the-Mc-Kittrick field. It is now 995 feet deep. At a depth of 600 feet fifty feet of oil sand was cased off, which can be used if a better strike is not made deeper. At a lower depth a good supply of water was encountered.

Work on the property of the Eureka. Oil Company has also been temporarily suspended. The company's well has about 800 feet in the hole.

The Lone Star Oil Company has reached a depth of 300 feet in its first hole and work is progressing satisfactorily.

The report that the Monterey Oil Company had put down two holes and abandoned them on account of quick-sand, etc., the officers of the company state is entirely erroneous, and they are at a loss to know how such a report gained currency. They only now have their first rig up and the tools and driller went to the ground yesterday. Drilling will commence as soon as the tools can be put in place.

us Trenton had walked to his work every morning along the same streets, turning the same corners, with the same, quiet, dignified gait; that he had always entered the office with the same: "Good morning, gentlemen!" in the same, dry formal tone; that he had gone home in the afternoon back along the morning route; and that nothing could charge him. The office tooy had even drawn a facetious picture of the office being shaken up by a cyclone, which was waving the iron safe aloft while Josephus Trenton, busy at his books, said without looking safe aloft while Josephus Trenton, busy at his books, said without looking up;

"I beg that you will not slam the books so hard, Mr. Meeks."

There was even some habit of long years in the way he zook his glasses off their hook,—getting them directly, without any aimless feeling for them, as other men have weakly done in their time; and perching them on his nose with that never-varying air of always having the light thread of things, and with the beginning of it in the morning just where he left off at night.

This was what Josephus Trenton had been for twenty years, while he was getting that droop in his shoulders and that thinner thatch on the top of his grey head. And now?

For three days there had been an astonished and sorely tried group in the office. On the first of these days, "Old Clockwork," as the younger men sometimes called him, had forgotten to take off his hat, and had worn it all day. On the second he had approached the office from the direction of Commerce street, walking with rapid and unsteady step. On the third he had miade a mistake in the books. It was not much of a mistake—only fifteen cents—and he had disavered it himself; but Josephus Trenton making a mistake! And now he had come down several minutes late, and had rerely looked at the work and gone away again. No wonder that his assistant—a-dery-haired young gentleman with freckies—announced to the assembled world that for once, and under great provocation he swore.

"It seems strange," he surgested,
"that you and your wife, after living together for more than thirty-five years, should not have been able to go on in peace."

"I'm not excusin' myself," said
Josephus Trenton, unconsciously falling back to the dialect of his ignorant youth, before he had rought his way to the desk at Forbes & Lessings. "I know there—there must a been something radically wrong with—with my methods. Still—I didn't know till it was too late—and I ain't sure I know was too late—and I ain't sure I know now."

Mr. Lorrimer gave a moment's critical examination of his paper knife.

"Your wife, as I understand from your note, left your house three days ago, and you have not seen her since."

It was a bold way of stating the matter; and it sent a white line around Josephus Trenton's lips.

"You are right," he said, with a break in his monotonous voice. "She left me, sayin' that for years she had starved—that was the word she used—starved for a little love—and that it was best to end it."

There was silence in the office; and they heard the cars going by in the street below, and the shouts of men to their teams. Mr. Lorrimer took advantage of the pause to blow the dust from the books that were nearest him. "I'm not a demonstrative man," Trenton went on, as though the other had spoken. "I'—I have not meant to—but there are things one cannot—cannot speak of—"

His voice trailed off and was lost, with something in his throat that made

His voice trailed off and was lost, with something in his throat that made an agony of speech.
"There is a draft from this window," said Mr. Lorrimer, getting up to close it. It took him a long while to close

"There were no children," he said after awhile, when he had turned around again. He said it as though he were about to say also: "If there had been children, perhaps this might not have happened."

have happened."

"Yes—there was a child—long ago, before you knew me."

The motionless hands that were holding one another began suddenly to move.

"The child was a boy—a little boy," he said with a break in his dry voice. "I was not a young man when he was born, and—be took hold of my life. He was—people found him—so attractive—and we—gave ourselves up to him. In a little while we began to—to live just for him. I called her 'Mother,' then—and she called me 'Father'—it was only for a little wnile. He lived to be 5 years old. Perhaps you can see—how, after that—a man may grow into a formal, silent machine—a kind of numb, lifeless thing—that people may misunderstand, because he cannot explain himself."

The two hands clasped and unclasped with pathetic helplessness.

"But now—now that my life is so broken," he went on, "I must try to save her—what I can from the wreck of it. I think she had a fondness forfor the home where the boy died—and it is natural and right she should comp back to it. You will prepare a deed to her—as soon as possible—and she can go back tomorrow. She will find the furniture—as it always was—and I have set aside for her use—the sum of money I have been able to save—and which is now in the Mechanic's Bank. Only, Lorrimer—if you will ask her one vexed with me because I could not endure to speak of the baby's high chair—that stands in the Corner of the

After the supper had been disposed of amidst much joility and good humor. Dr. Kannon read a carefully prepared paper upon the subject of "Daniel O'Connell, the Catholic Emancipator." Dr. Kannon was followed in brief speeches by John F. Francis, Bishop Montgomery, Father Barron, Dr. P. S. Dougherty, W. A. Driscoil. James F. Kenealy, Stephen M. White, Count Bozenta, W. R. The paper of Dr. M. M. Kannon was an interesting and comprehensive one, showing evidence of wide research and careful study of the life and character of the great lawyer, patriot and orator. "Daniel O'Connell." said the speaker.

Fool Story About Roosevelt's Buffaloes Disposed of by Himself.

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] For nearly a century the exact location of the quarries from which the Padres, obtained limestone for cement to build the old mission has been known to but a few people, though the name, Positasy la Calera, which was applied to the place at the time and is still retained by the rancho, has spoken of the lime kilin (calera) through many generations. The property is now owned by T. W. More. The quarries were first excavated at the building of the mission here, and later other buildings were erected, using lime from the same place. A notable instance is the Santa Ynez mission, the cement for which was carried over the mountains over sixty miles in baskets on the backs of Indians.

The ruins of the old kilns still stand. a few hundred yards from the mouth of the Arroyo Burro Creek. The action of the elements has formed a thick crust of oxides over the surface of the calcium deposits, which partially accounts for its being forgotten. It is situated on the beach and should the quarries be opened, as no doubt they will be, the product could be lightered aboard vessels in the channel without land transportation. A recent analysis of a sample of the lime rock by the American Beet Sugar Company at Oxnard shows 99.43 per cent. calcium carbonate.

TEDDY'S BUFFALOES.
Somebody has been circulating a story here to the effect that Gov. A well-known Democrat of this city is said to have used the story as a campaign "argument" in the presence of F. T. Underhill, who is an old friend of the now famous Rough Rider. Mr. Underhill at once wrote Gov. Roosevelt, asking him for the facts in the case, and received a long personal letter, the principal clause of which is: "In all my life I have shot just two buffaloes, both of them bulls. The heads of both are in my house now. Being bulls, their hides were useless, but we used all the hump meat and the tongues."

SANTA BARBARA

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] For nearly a century the exact location of the quarries from which the Padres, obtained limestone for cement to build the old mission has been known to but a few people, though the name, Positasy la Calera, which was applied to the place at the time and is still retained by the rancho, has spoken of the lime klin (calera) through many generations. The property is now owned by T. W. More. The quarries were first excavated at the building of the mission here, and later other buildings were erected, using lime from the same place. A notable instance is the Santa Ynez mission, the cement for which was carried over the mountains over sixty miles in baskets on the backs of Indians.

The ruins of the old klins still stand, a few hundred yards from the mouth of the Arroyo Burro Creek. The action of the elements has formed a thick crust of oxides over the surface of the calcium deposits, which partially accounts for its being forgotten. It is situated on the beach and should the quarries be opened, as no doubt they will be, the product could be lightered aboard vessels in the channel without land transportation. A recent analysis of a sample of the lime rock by the American Beet Sugar Company at Oxnard shows 99.43 per cent. calcium carbonate.

TEDDY'S BUFFALOES.

Somebody has been circulating a story here to the effect that Gov. A well-known Democrat of this city is said to have used the story as a campaign "argument" in the presence of F. T. Underhill, who is an old friend of the now famous Rough Rider. Mr. Underhill at once wrote Gov. Roosevelt, saking him for the facts in the case, and received a long personal letter, the principal clause of which is: "In all my life I have shot just two buffaloes, both of them bulls, The heads of both ard in my house now. Being bulls, their lides were useless, but we used all the hump meat and the tongues."
